Randy Cowen Joins Technology Advisory Board of Bridge Growth Partners

New York, May 17, 2017 – Bridge Growth Partners, LLC today announced that Randolph “Randy” L. Cowen, former Global Head of Technology and Operations, Chief Information Officer and Co-Chief Administrative Officer of the Goldman Sachs Group, Inc., has joined Bridge Growth Partners’ Technology Advisory Board.

“I’m so pleased to welcome Randy to our Technology Advisory Board,” said Joe Tucci, Chairman of Bridge Growth Partners. “I enjoyed working with him when we served on the boards at EMC Corporation and Pivotal Software together, and I know he will bring valuable insight, perspective and relationships to our investing activities at Bridge Growth. His work as a hands-on leader in information technology over many years at Goldman Sachs, where he helped one of the world’s most adept and successful global firms deliver value to its investors and its clients in a complex marketplace, is unparalleled.”

“Randy has a proven ability to define and implement an effective global IT strategy,” said Sander Levy, Managing Principal of Bridge Growth Partners. “His impressive skill set in the technology world fits squarely within our focus and will allow us to leverage his broad knowledge across a number of potential investments. The addition of Randy to our Technology Advisory Board is consistent with the firm’s commitment to identifying experienced operating talent to help us evaluate and execute differentiated and compelling investments in the technology arena, and we are thrilled to welcome him.”

“I’m honored to join Board Bridge Growth Partners as an advisory board member and help build upon the substantial achievements the firm has enjoyed since its founding,” said Randy Cowen. “I am deeply impressed by the firm’s unique ability to pursue, develop and execute attractive technology investments through nimble problem solving, and I look forward to utilizing my experience and relationships to work with the Bridge Growth team to create more value for their investors and portfolio company partners.”
